

Committee to Review the Committee on Education

It has been observed that COE is not operating in the manner envisioned when the policy committees were created. Since the AMS has a newly-established Department of Education and Diversity, as well as a new Associate Executive Director for Government Relations and Programs (Washington Office), the Long Range Planning Committee (LRPC) deemed it timely to reconsider the charge of COE, the structure of its meetings, and the designation of a staff liaison. This ad hoc committee, appointed by the President, will review these matters and report back to the LRPC.
