

1068-53-336

Renato Feres* (feres@math.wustl.edu), Washington University, Campus Box 1146, Department of Mathematics, St. Louis, MO 63130. Mechanics and probability.

We consider a class of Markov chains derived from simple types of mechanical systems for which certain degrees of freedom must be viewed as random. We investigate the spectral theory of the associated transition probabilities operator as well as basic questions in the statistical physics of such systems. (Received January 21, 2011)