In this talk, we shall discuss a novel numerical method for inverse medium scattering in acoustic wave propagation. The method consists of two steps: a first step of detecting the scatterer support by a direct sampling method, and a second step of image enhancement by an innovative application of the nonsmooth Tikhonov regularization. Numerical results for two- and three-dimensional examples will be presented. (Received July 03, 2012)