We will discuss different “concordance” equivalence relations. For a ring $R$, we define a $R$-concordance group. We will consider some differences between $R$-concordance group and the (standard) concordance group. Then we will conclude with some questions about the differences between smooth and topological $R$-concordance. (Received September 03, 2014)