
We will look at the hyperbolic structures of a one-holed Klein bottle. The geometry when the hole is actually a puncture is of particular interest. We will also be investigating the deformations of these structures through Lorentzian geometry. (Received August 14, 2014)