A multiplicative equivariant infinite loop space machine. Preliminary report.

Categorical data has long been a useful input for infinite loop space machines. In this talk I will report on the complications that arise when doing this in the equivariant context and when both additive and multiplicative structures are needed. (Received January 22, 2019)