

1146-05-240

Jie Han*, 5 Lippitt Road, Kingston, RI 02881. Universality for spanning trees in randomly perturbed graphs.

There has been a recent focus on the study of randomly perturbed graphs, which concerns the process of adding random edges to a prefixed dense graph. We study the universality of bound degree spanning trees in this model, which solves a problem of Krivelevich, Kwan and Sudakov.

Joint with with Julia Böttcher, Yoshiharu Kohayakawa, Richard Montgomery, Olaf Parczyk and Yury Person. (Received January 23, 2019)