

1152-51-37

Andrew Vince* (avince@ufl.edu), Department of Mathematics, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL 32611. Self Similar Tilings from Iterated Function Systems.

A construction using iterated function systems produces self-similar, quasiperiodic tilings of the plane. Up to congruence there are finitely many tiles in each such tiling. In some cases, the tiles have fractal boundary. (Received August 08, 2019)