Our main interest in this talk is the nil Temperley–Lieb algebra of type affine $A$. Looking at past work, we will describe a faithful representation of this algebra using particle configurations and the progress that has been made. Looking at current and future work, we will discuss how full heaps can be useful in exploring this algebra. (Received September 02, 2019)