Elementary Course in Differential Equations

By EDWARD J. MAURUS, Notre Dame University

Intended primarily for students in the first or second year of engineering schools in connection with or supplementing a course in integral calculus. It has grown from Professor Maurus' own classroom needs. The language is clear and direct. Each case is illustrated by a completely solved problem. The compactness and brevity of the book render it especially valuable for crowded courses.

GINN AND COMPANY
70 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK