* 18–20 DIMACS Working Group on Data Compression in Networks and Applications, DIMACS Center, Rutgers University, Piscataway, New Jersey.

Short Description: This working group will explore the role of compression in all layers of data networks. What are the benefits and costs of doing data compression at the packet level versus the stream level? What are the issues in compressing massive data warehouses? What are the issues in compressing new data formats, such as html or XML or BioXML? How does one best compress heterogeneous data? What data compression problems are unique to applications such as email and the web? The working group will review a variety of applications and new compression methods and it is likely that subgroups will be formed to investigate more specialized aspects of the compression problem.

This section contains announcements of meetings and conferences of interest to some segment of the mathematical public, including ad hoc, local, or regional meetings, and meetings and symposia devoted to specialized topics, as well as announcements of regularly scheduled meetings of national or international mathematical organizations. A complete list of meetings of the Society can be found on the last page of each issue.

An announcement will be published in the Notices if it contains a call for papers and specifies the place, date, subject (when applicable), and the speakers; a second announcement will be published only if there are changes or necessary additional information. Once an announcement has appeared, the event will be briefly noted in every third issue until it has been held and a reference will be given in parentheses to the month, year, and page of the issue in which the complete information appeared. Asterisks (*) mark those announcements containing new or revised information.

In general, announcements of meetings and conferences held in North America carry only the date, title of meeting, place of meeting, names of speakers (or sometimes a general statement on the program), deadlines for abstracts or contributed papers, and source of further information. Meetings held outside the North American area may carry more detailed information. In any case, if there is any application deadline with respect to participation in the meeting, this fact should be noted. All communications on meetings and conferences in the mathematical sciences should be sent to the Editor of the Notices in care of the American Mathematical Society in Providence or electronically to notices@ams.org or mathcal@ams.org.

In order to allow participants to arrange their travel plans, organizers of meetings are urged to submit information for these listings early enough to allow them to appear in more than one issue of the Notices prior to the meeting in question. To achieve this, listings should be received in Providence six months prior to the scheduled date of the meeting.

The complete listing of the Mathematics Calendar will be published only in the September issue of the Notices. The March, June, and December issues will include, along with new announcements, references to any previously announced meetings and conferences occurring within the twelve-month period following the month of those issues. New information about meetings and conferences that will occur later than the twelve-month period will be announced once in full and will not be repeated until the date of the conference or meeting falls within the twelve-month period.

The Mathematics Calendar, as well as Meetings and Conferences of the AMS, is now available electronically through the AMS website on the World Wide Web. To access the AMS website, use the URL: <http://www.ams.org/>.

* 24-29 Conference on Stochastic Networks, Stanford University, Palo Alto, California.

Description: An international conference on stochastic networks will be held June 24-29, 2002, on the Stanford campus. This week-long workshop continues a tradition of similar meetings held at irregular intervals over the last 15 years, starting with the one organized by Tom Kurtz in Madison in 1987, continuing with conferences in Minneapolis and Edinburgh during the 1990s, then returning to Madison in 2000. These meetings have brought together mathematicians and applied researchers who share an interest in stochastic network models.

Like its predecessors, the Stanford Stochastic Networks Conference will emphasize new model structures and new mathematical problems that are motivated by contemporary developments in business and technology, with particular emphasis on computer and wireless networks or data networks and electronic business. We expect to have talks on other application areas too, like manufacturing and supply chain management and on mathematical methods for stochastic network analysis.
