Mysteries and Puzzles

Crimes and Mathdemeanors

Leith Hathout $14.95; Paperback; 150 pp.

"Leith Hathout, drawing on a great love of mathematics, has with incredible ingenuity embedded fourteen lovely problems within fourteen mystery yarns."

—MARTIN GARDNER

"This is a truly delightful book that should inspire many a high school student, bored with classroom 'word problems,' to take a second look at the subject with fresh eyes. The more so if they realize that the author is, like them, a high school student!"

—KEITH DEVLIN

"I am hoping that in the setting of solving a mystery, [kids my age] might come to see math as interesting and useful and beautiful."

—LEITH HATHOUT

Mathematical Mind-Benders

Peter Winkler $18.95; Paperback; 160 pp.

This wonderful book presents, from diverse sources and with wit and humor, many interesting and challenging problems, both mathematical and otherwise. Like its predecessor, it is a must for the shelves of a problem connoisseur."

—ANDY LIU

This book is for lovers of mathematics, lovers of puzzles, lovers of a challenge. Most of all, it is for those who think that the world of mathematics is orderly, logical, and intuitive—and are ready to learn otherwise!
