Colliander Appointed PIMS Director

James Colliander of the University of British Columbia has been appointed the director of the Pacific Institute for the Mathematical Sciences (PIMS). His appointment began on July 1, 2016, and will run for five years.

James Colliander

Colliander works at the interface of partial differential equations, harmonic analysis, and dynamical systems. He received his PhD from the University of Illinois in 1997. He has held postdoctoral positions at the Mathematical Sciences Research Institute and the University of California Berkeley. He was full professor at the University of Toronto from 2007 to 2015. His honors include a Sloan Foundation Fellowship (2003), the McLean Award (2007), and the Outstanding Teaching Award in Arts and Science (2010) at the University of Toronto. He is the founder and CEO of Crowdmark, an education technology company that was awarded the Connaught Seed Stage Startup Award at Toronto in 2013.

PIMS is a consortium of ten universities in the Pacific Northwest and Western Canada. For twenty years PIMS has been promoting research in and applications of the mathematical sciences, facilitating the training of highly qualified personnel, enriching public awareness of and education in the mathematical sciences, and creating robust mathematical partnerships.
